Though her voice once fa_mil__iar hath gone from the day And her smiles from the sun_light have

While the flow'rs bloom in glad_ness and spring birds rejoice There's a void in our household of fa__ded a_way, Though I wake to a scene now de_ser__ted and bleak, In my one gentle voice. The form of a loved one hath passed from the light, But the vis_ions I find the lost form that I seek; For I see her still in my sound of her foot_fall re_turns with the night; For I see her still in my

dreams, I see her still in my dreams, Though her smiles have de_

-part-ed from the meadows and the streams. I see her still in my-

-parted from the meadows and the streams. I see her still in my
